To our Valued Patients:

Thank you for your continued patience as we work to return our formula products to the market as soon as possible. We are reaching out to provide updates, as promised, about the metabolic product release timings for the U.S. market.

There are changes to the anticipated release dates for some of our products from what was originally scheduled. Specifically, the products that were originally planned to release in October are now expected to release in December. After these products are released, it can take up to four weeks for products to be available through standard channels such as home medical suppliers, distributors, and state programs.

While these timelines have shifted, we continue to have a sufficient supply of our metabolic products that will allow us to support urgent patient needs in the United States through Abbott's Metabolic Formulas Urgent Needs Program. This program will remain active and available for patients who need these important products until the newly manufactured metabolic product is available in the standard channels for patients. The chart below shows which products are active in the Abbott Metabolic Formulas Urgent Needs Program.

Estimated Release Month for the U.S.	Product	Urgent Needs Program Status
